If I were to be driving to another state and/or through a major area whose traffic and weather is covered only by local stations (of whose frequency I have no knowledge), I would have no idea as to how to avoid traffic and weather problems. The service that satellite radio offers is valuable to travelers and without it, the commission would be condemning those who wish to subscribe to "wander in the wilderness". The commission would be adding to city congestion, tie ups, pollution, and decreased public safety by not allowing satellite radio to offer traffic and weather reports.
